Improve Your RHIO Patient Consent Rates

Patients benefit when doctors have their complete medical history. That is why obtaining consent for patients to access their health information from the RHIO is so important.

BPHC has developed training tools for staff members responsible for obtaining RHIO patient consent. The training materials, which are available to organizations that are members of the RHIO, can help improve your organization's consent rates. They include a video, PowerPoint presentation, and Tip Sheet.

The training covers:

Overview of the RHIO and how health information exchanges work

Review of consent forms and consent choices

Tips and talking point for engaging patients in giving consent

Bronx Resource Directory

A guide to health and community services for Bronx residents

BPHC has developed an online directory of our member organizations and the range of health and community services they offer.

We've had a very positive response from agencies that find it a very useful tool in identifying local resources for patient and clients.

This directory is available to all organizations and the public.

If your organization is not in the directory, e-mail us at info@bronxphc.org.

BPHC Research

How Bronx community members use healthcare

Download BPHC's research on how Bronx residents use and learn about healthcare including:

Likelihood of having a PCP

Barriers to accessing care

Awareness of urgent care centers

How they'd like their providers to communicate for scheduling and appointment reminders

Where they go to learn about healthcare and local health programs

These findings shed light on how community members access care and the communication channels they use so you can design and deliver programs in a way that addresses their needs and preferences.
