Nursing Home Pilots Expand

Based on promising outcomes in patient care and satisfaction, two nursing homes – Centers Health Care and Providence Rest – will expand their BPHC pilots for another six-month period.

The pilots seek to reduce the rates of re-hospitalizations, transitions and unnecessary emergency room visits while ensuring that patients and their families are satisfied with their care.

Centers Health Care utilizes its referral management platform to coordinate post-discharge community-based care. Providence Rest uses telehealth to assess patients during hours when a physician is not on site.

“We are encouraged by our results in the first six-month pilot periods and look forward to continuing to evaluate their progress and look at opportunities for enhancements,” says Dr. J. Robin Moon, Senior Director, System Integration.

Meet Our Newly Certified Prosci Change Management Leaders

Building a coordinated, patient-centered health care system often requires organizations to make changes that can affect their structure, processes, job roles, technology, etc.

Successful change rests on having a strategic approach that ensures that people and the organization are informed, prepared, and empowered to embrace and implement change.

This month, staff from 13 member organizations joined us for a three-day change management workshop by the company, Prosci, where they developed their own project plans and became Prosci Change Management certified.

Our congratulations to our new change leaders!

How is DSRIP an making impact?

We asked our members.

As we approach DSRIP's fifth year, we asked our member organizations how working with BPHC has made an impact on how they care for community members.

Look for their videotaped responses in our E-Bulletins. View our first interview below!

“The success wasn't just in the numbers.”

Meet Cipora Moskowitz, Director, Value-Based Programs and Partner Engagement, Centers Health Care.

See what she says about the “real success” brought on through Centers Health Care's work with BPHC. Click here for the video.
