Bronx Partners for Healthy Communities (BPHC) invites you to an informative and immersive program focused on the impact of poverty on our community members' health.

Thanks to excellent past reviews, BPHC is offering this program to member organizations on two dates this fall -- October 17 and November 14.

Poverty has a direct link to poor health as evidenced in the Bronx where families live with significantly higher rates of chronic diseases like asthma, diabetes, and cardiovascular disease.

Experts will explore the relationship between poverty and health disparities and how we can improve our patients' and clients' experiences when they visit us for services. Participants will also take on the role of family members living on a limited budget and learn about the challenges and difficult choices they make and the toll it takes on their health and access to care.

We encourage you to register and offer this opportunity to all staff members who would benefit from this program. Please register through the link above. For questions, please contact Millie Stanton.

BPHC's Care Coordination Training Program starts this month. This highly rated program provides comprehensive training on the core skills and competencies needed for this growing and important role.

In a recent independent assessment, participants gave high endorsements for the course being "insightful," "all-inclusive," and "extremely useful" in their role on a care team (read more).

Participants will complete the course prepared to be productive members of healthcare teams that provide coordinated, patient-centered care.

The course is developed for Care Coordinators (and equivalent titles), Depression Care Managers, Health Home Coordinators, Nurse Care Management Supervisors, Patient Navigators and Program Managers.

We have a few open seats so register soon to secure a spot.
